2018
North American Computational Linguistics Olympiad

Hosted by the Southern Illinois University Department of Linguistics

Are you interested in language? Are you good at solving puzzles? Do you enjoy logic games? Are you high school or middle school student between the ages of 13-18? If so, you should complete in the 2018 North American Computational Linguistics Olympiad! No prior knowledge or experience with linguistics or second languages is required—all of the problems test problem solving and logical thinking abilities.

Winners of the invitational round will be eligible to represent North America at the International Linguistic Olympiad!
