Course Description and Objectives:

Sex and sexuality are typically thought to be governed by biological or psychological forces. We do not usually think of sex and sexuality as being socially constructed, so what leads us to understand what makes certain behaviors sexual? How do we know? How are our identities shaped by our sexual behaviors and desires? How are these behaviors and desires shaped by social forces?

Throughout the semester, this course will critically explore sexuality in a variety of different social contexts. It presupposes the institution of heterosexuality as the norm around which contemporary sexuality must be understood. It spends considerable time, throughout, helping us understand how it is that we live in a culture where marriage-centered heterosexuality has come to be thought of as “natural” and “normal,” as well as how the subjugation of differing sexualities has been vital in that process.

Upon successful completion of this course, you will be able to: (a) demonstrate an understanding of such concepts as sexual identity, homophobia, and heteronormativity; (b) display basic knowledge of sexual diversity in U.S. history, culture, and social structure; (c) demonstrate critical thinking about the dialogue surrounding different theories and perspectives pertaining to sexuality; (d) apply concepts from personal experiences to identify intersections of sexuality with race/ethnicity, class, and gender as elements of human expression that must be understood to enhance the common good.

Required Readings:

There is NO required textbook for this course. There are, however, required readings. Weekly course readings and other information will be available on BLACKBOARD. You MUST have an SIU email account to access Blackboard.

Class Policies:

Class discussion may, at times, concern controversial issues. Students are expected to respect the viewpoints expressed by other. If you disagree with what someone has said, you are encouraged to express your disagreement but are expected to do so in a civil, respectable, and polite manner.

Ground rules to keep in mind

You should think about these ground rules during all classroom interaction. You are expected to follow them all at all time.

1. Acknowledge that racism, sexism, classism, and homophobia exist.
2. Acknowledge that one of the meanings of racism/sexism is that we have been systematically taught misinformation about our own groups and especially members of other groups.
3. We cannot be blamed for misinformation we have learned, but we are responsible for repeating misinformation after we have learned otherwise.
4. Do not blame victims for their oppression.
5. We will assume that people are always doing the best they can.
6. We will actively pursue information about our own groups and those of others.
7. We will share information about our own groups with other members of the class and we will never demean, devalue, or in any way “put down” people for their experiences.
8. We have an obligation actively combat the myths and stereotypes about our own groups and other groups so that we can break down the walls which prohibits groups cooperation and group gain.
9. We want to create a safe atmosphere for open discussion. Thus, at times, members of the class may wish to make a comment that they do not want repeated outside the classroom. If so, the student will preface his or her remarks with a request and the class will agree not to repeat the remarks.

Classroom Etiquette:

Attendance- You are expected to attend the class regularly. You may miss up to two classes without being penalized. These absences include sick days, religious holidays, and personal holidays. Additionally, if you cannot make it to class, be sure to email me as soon as possible and attend my office hours to catch up on material you have missed. I will take attendance daily.

Missed work-Late papers will not be accepted in this course. Any deadlines regarding written work or student meetings will be announced in advance of due dates. It shouldn't be assumed that you will be given make-up exams if you miss a test day. Make up exams will be given under these conditions: (1) Written certification from a physician is presented indicating that the student was too ill to take the exam; (2) a written certification of death in the family is presented (3) written certification from a coach is presented stating that attendance was necessary at a previously scheduled intercollegiate event; (4) when written certification is available for some –other-ordinary event that makes attendance at the exam impossible. Otherwise, failure to show up for an exam on the scheduled day will result in the score of a zero.

Plagiarism - Cheating/Academic Dishonesty: COLLEGE AND UNIVERSITY REGULATIONS REGARDING PLAGIARISM AND OTHER FORMS OF ACADEMIC DISHONESTY WILL BE UPHOLD IN THIS COURSE. If you are not familiar with the definitions and consequences of cheating or with your rights, refer to your Student Conduct Code or see an academic advisor. You should be aware of plagiarism in every paper or assignment you write. Any time you use the ideas of someone else you must give them credit. You should put quotation marks around all direct quotations and cite the author at the end of the passage. If you are unsure of the proper way to do this see me before you turn in any work. Any work that has been plagiarized will receive a failing grade and may be turned in to the university as a violation of the student code of conduct.

Office Hours - You should make use of my office hours. If you have any concerns about the class I will be quite happy to discuss them with you.

E-mail - My e-mail address is listed on the first page of this syllabus. E-mail can be used as a general means of contacting me. You can e-mail me comments about class, questions, paper drafts, or anything else that you think I should be aware of. I check this e-mail account often.

Quizzes- Unannounced quizzes may be given throughout the semester, particularly if the class does not appear to have done the readings or does not adequately participate in discussion. Quiz material will include information from lecture, readings from blackboard, and any videos that may be shown throughout the course.

Exams- In-class exams will include true/false, multiple-choice, and essay questions. Take-home examples will include only essay questions (long and short answer) You should draw upon your readings, the lectures, and class discussions to answer these questions. All three exams are worth 100 points. Since the material and order of this class builds off of the concepts from previous topics, approach them with all the information gathered throughout the course.

Assignments- There are five out-of-class assignments. They are listed on the syllabus, will be announced ahead of time in class, and directions for them can be found on Blackboard.

Reading Questions- There will be nine sets of readings throughout the course. For each set of readings, you are required to answer reading questions located on Blackboard. I expect you to turn in your answers for the reading questions at the end of each reading discussion class listed on the course schedule. Answers turned in late will not receive credit. MUST BE TYPED BEFORE CLASS.

Emergency Procedures:

Southern Illinois University Carbondale is committed to providing a safe and healthy environment for study and work. Because health and safety circumstances are beyond our control, we ask that you become familiar with the SIUC Emergency Response Plan and Building Emergency Response Team (BERT) program. Emergency response information is available on posters in buildings on campus, on BERT's website at www.bert.siu.edu, Department of Safety's website www.dps.siu.edu, and in Emergency Response Guideline pamphlet. Know how to respond to each type of emergency.

The instructor will provide guidance and direction to students in the classroom in the event of an emergency affecting your location. It is important that you follow these instructions and stay with your instructor during an evacuation or sheltering emergency. The BERT Emergency Response Team will provide assistance to your instructor in evacuating the building or sheltering within the facility.
