

CoLA Lowdown

A NOTE

From the Dean

College Calendars

CoLA Events Calendar

With spring break around the corner and daffodils springing up in unexpected places, I am reminded about a saying my Dad used to say whenever he encountered a surprising confrontation. As a long-haul truck driver, he would often clash with this or that other driver who was quick to anger or road rage. He used to say, “Well, they can get glad just like they got mad.” I heard this so often growing up that I didn’t really think about what that aphorism was about—a kind of deliberate, decisive recognition of choices, I guess.

Now in my 9th month here at SIU, I’ve decided to make a choice to be as optimistic as I am able. With shifting budgets, shifting priorities, the revelations of long-held grudges and conflicts, histories of painful decisions, layers and layers of formidable bureaucracies—with all of this, I choose to be glad, to see the up side, to lift my eyes to the horizon. Truly, there are great things we can do in CoLA, collectively: the evidence is as clear as those daffodils. Palpable, even.

CoLA Speaker Series

Time: 5:00 – 7:00 pm

Location: Guyon Auditorium, Morris Library

Title: "The New World of Artificial Intelligence at the Center of Virtual Expression"

Speakers: Prof. Ajit Jaokar and Ayse Mutlu

With the rise of chatGPT and GPT-3, Artificial Intelligence (AI) has now become mainstream. This gives us a once in a lifetime opportunity to master new interdisciplinary skills spanning the worlds of social science, the humanities, and technology. Presented by Ajit Jaokar and Ayse Mutlu from the University of Oxford, the talk will share their experience in setting up an AI center of excellence. They aspire to bring their experience in generative AI (large language models, image-based models and coding) to the new SIU Center for Virtual Expression (CvEX). Their experience in AI and OpenAI-Azure could lay the foundations for pedagogy and future opportunities in the College of Liberal Arts at SIU.

Refreshments provided after the talk.
