

CHIN 370: CONTEMPORARY CHINA

Instructor: Shu-Ling Wu online asynchronous class

This course explores the social, political, economic, and cultural changes in the Chinese-speaking world and examines the underlying historical factors, values, and beliefs that shape them. The objectives are to equip students with the background knowledge that is crucial to interpret and understand China-related events. Course material will come from book chapters, journal and news articles, video clips, and film.

Taught in English. This course satisfies the CoLA Writing-Across-the-Curriculum requirement & University Core Curriculum-Humanities requirement. Credit Hours: 3

