Course Overview and Objectives
This course provides an introduction to the systematic study of major issues in international relations. Through the following recurring themes of this course: power, motivation and choice, nation-states, and sovereignty, we will explore the players, their goals, the constraints within which players operate and the strategic interactions between players. Topics include: the nature of the international system and states; the origins and consequences of major wars; the dynamics of coercion; international institutions and the problem of cooperation; the interaction of domestic and international politics; the role of ideas and norms about sovereignty, military intervention, and human rights; state failure; terrorism; nuclear weapons proliferation; global reactions to United States hegemony; and the future of international politics.

Part I introduces general theories for explaining international relations. Part II addresses conflict and security. Part III explores international political economy, and Part IV focuses on global environment, non-state actors, human rights and global governance.

Course Format
The readings largely will be drawn from the assigned textbook, although I will regularly assign short readings from journals and other books. I hope that our sessions will be engaging, informative, and participatory. We will engage in a variety of activities including lectures, personal writing exercises, class discussions, video clips, demonstrations, problem-solving activities, and other critical thinking exercises. I value and will solicit your input on class activities both at the beginning of the semester as well as around midterm. I will make every reasonable effort to incorporate these ideas in the classroom.

Requirements
1. Required Textbook

The book is available at the campus book store and online. Alternatively, you can get the book from the SIU Library/(I-Share). In order to allow for shipping time, I have posted all of the first week’s readings on DesiretoLearn website. After the first week, I expect you to have the book and bring IT with you to class. In case you have problems let me know earlier.

2. Attendance and Participation
Attendance and participation are worth 10% of your grade. I expect all students to attend class regularly. On many days, we will spend a few minutes writing about various topics from the text or lecture. Occasionally, you will hand in these writings for credit. These writing activities will facilitate critical thinking and will also guide some of our discussion. Furthermore, please finish the assigned readings by the date they appear in the syllabus. Read critically and be prepared to comment on the readings in class. I encourage you to ask questions and make relevant comments at any time during class. I will excuse 4 absences during the semester. Use it wisely. If you wish to be excused for subsequent absences based on medical conditions or other emergencies please submit proper documents or talk to me earlier.

3. Reading Quizzes

Over the course, students will take eight reading quizzes in-class (multiple choice and short answers) on assigned readings of the day. The eight quizzes are worth 40% of your final grade (5% each).

4. Essay

Over the course students will be asked to answer one take-home essay question (5-10 pages) on the studied subjects. You will be given a choice of questions, handed out a month before the assignment is due. The essay question corresponds to 10% of your grade. The objectives of this writing assessment addresses these: a. Context and Purpose for Writing (Appropriate for the audience and the purpose), b. Content Development (Describes, explores, and supports an argument or idea), c. Genre and Disciplinary Conventions (Organization, format, and style appropriate to subfield within the discipline), d. Sources and Evidence (Does evidence in the paper lead to or support the conclusion stated, and e. Control of Syntax and Mechanics). I will provided detailed rubric along with the list of topics.

5. Exams

There will be a total four exams, held after the completion of each section 40% of your final grade (10% each). The final exam is not comprehensive. Each exam will consist of multiple choice, identifications, and essays. I will hand out study guides in advance.

6. Grade Summary

This course is worth 760 points which are broken up over the several different items

- Participation: 100

Course Policies

1. Late Papers
Papers handed in after the deadline will be deducted 1 letter grade (10%), and then an additional letter grade (10%) for each day (24 hours) it is late. If there is a problem completing an assignment on time, please contact me well in advance of the due date.

2. Student Conduct and Classroom Courtesy
Classroom courtesy is an essential component of creating an effective learning environment. All students have the right to learn without unnecessary distractions. These distractions include: cell phones, talking during lectures (unless recognized by the instructor), reading newspapers, falling asleep, etc. If you need a cell phone for emergency purposes, leave it on vibrate. Entering and leaving are also significant sources of distraction. It is your responsibility to be on time and to stay for the entire period. In circumstances where you need to leave early, tell the instructor beforehand. Repeated disruptions of class will lead to a reduction in your final grade. Most importantly, class discussions of the issues in political science can lead to strong feelings and heated debate. Because this is a college classroom, all discussion must be respectful and scholarly.

Scholarly Comments
- are respectful of diverse opinions and open to follow up questions and/or disagreement
- are related to class and/or the course material
- focus on advancing the discussion about issues related to the course and/or course material rather than personal beliefs, and
- are delivered in normal tones and a non-aggressive manner.

Unacceptable Comments
- are personal in nature. This includes attacks on a person’s appearance, demeanor, or political beliefs.
- include interrupting the instructor or other students. Raise your hand and wait to be recognized.
- often use the discussion to argue for political positions and/or beliefs. If political discussions arise, they must be discussed in a scholarly way (see above).
- may include using raised tones, yelling, engaging in arguments with other students and being threatening in any manner.
- include ignoring the instructor’s authority to maintain the integrity of the classroom environment.

3. Academic Integrity
Students are expected to uphold the Academic Honor Code published in Southern Illinois University-Carbondales Student Conduct Code (Section II, Article A). Plagiarism is the most serious academic offense. Violations of this code can lead to failure of the course and a hearing with the university’s judicial board to suspend you from the university.

4. Syllabus Change
This syllabus is a guide for the course and is subject to change with advanced notice.
5. Disabilities

It is the policy of this university and the instructor to assist those with disabilities. You should notify me as soon as possible of any disability that might impact your performance in this course. Disabilities Support Services can assist you with taking notes, testing, and other accessibility issues.

6. Emergency Procedures

Southern Illinois University Carbondale is committed to providing a safe and healthy environment for study and work. Because some health and safety circumstances are beyond our control, we ask that you become familiar with the SIUC Emergency Response Plan and Building Emergency Response Team (BERT) program. Emergency response information is available on posters in buildings on campus, available on the BERT'S website at www.bert.siu.edu, Department of Public Safety’s website www.dps.siu.edu and in the Emergency Response Guidelines pamphlet. Know how to respond to each type of emergency.

Instructors will provide guidance and direction to students in the classroom in the event of an emergency affecting your location. It is important that you follow these instructions and stay with your instructor during an evacuation or sheltering emergency. The Building Emergency Response Team will provide assistance to your instructor in evacuating the building or sheltering within the facility.
