Description

ENGL 119

Introduction to Creative Writing

INSTRUCTOR: Staff

COURSE DESCRIPTION

ENGL 119 is an introductory creative writing course. We will cover the fundamental elements of fiction and poetry, and begin familiarizing ourselves with the critical workshop format

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Over the course of the semester, students will submit for workshop one short story, one flash-fiction piece, and two poems. More writing will be required, but will not necessarily be shared with the class for workshop criticism. The final assignment will be a creative portfolio, consisting of the original workshopped manuscripts and the revised versions of said manuscripts. The portfolio will also contain one non-workshopped writing assignment, accompanied by a revised version and a short essay detailing the choices made in the revision processes. The aforementioned essay should make use of terms and concepts discussed in class.

REQUIRED TEXTS

All readings will be distributed via D2L. On discussion days, bring a copy of the reading(s) to class. You may bring a digital copy on your tablet or laptop, or a printed copy. Also, you must bring at least one printed-out discussion question that addresses either the content or the style of the text. Refer to the class schedule to see what texts are assigned for any given day.

Required Materials

- Writing utensils (preferably pens)
- A college-ruled spiral notebook (specifically for ENGL 119)
- Access to the internet
- Access to a printer
- 1 simple file folder (I can provide folders if you'd rather not buy a new one)
